

Through the participation of the majority of our people in political and mass organizations, our will is expressed within the Cuban Political System, which constitutes a genuinely indigenous project, founded on a rich history of struggle for equality and solidarity among the men and women.